

Café 43

Operators:

Culinaire, the Dallas-based hospitality and dining management specialists

Restaurant Concept:

A contemporary, upscale restaurant located at the George W. Bush Presidential Center, Café 43 is the place for a weekday lunch and for a fabulous Saturday or Sunday brunch.

Chef John Maas has created a locally sourced, organic, seasonal, sustainable menu offering recipes made entirely in house. The menu is printed on recyclable paper from sustainable sources to support the Bush Center's LEED Platinum certification.

Since Café 43 is open for lunch and brunch only, the beautiful dining space is a desirable destination for private functions in the evening. There are no banquettes or partitions, so the room can easily be transformed for groups of up to 150.

With its exquisite terrace seating overlooking the restored native Texas prairie landscape of the Bush Center, Café 43 is a convenient, centrally located, choice for rehearsal dinners, retirement parties, corporate dining and very special events. Dining at Café 43 does not require admission to the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum.

Executive Chef:

John Maas
